

Gush Katif values were an integral part of the community spirit, and helped the residents cope with the many challenges they faced.

Land of Faith

All community decisions were made according to this value system.

The residents' faith, whether they were religious or secular, found expression in a variety of ways:

- Choosing to settle in this special area of land based on religious and Zionist beliefs and values.
- Believing that they were capable of making the desert flourish as the Israeli nation returned to its land.
- Coping with the continuous Arab terror.
- Fighting the Disengagement Plan and remaining in Gush Katif.
- Choosing to continue with the Zionist dream by remaining in a Gush Katif community framework following the Disengagement Plan.
